

NORWAY REBUKES RUSSIA, TURNS TO U.S.

ANGRY REDS DEPART FROM BERLIN HOME

Mission Vacates House Which U. S. Had Put Under Blockade

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 4.—(AP)—Eight angry Russian soldiers ran down the Red flag over the Russian repatriation mission headquarters today and roared off to the Soviet zone of Germany in a motor convoy.

The Russians left the building in which they had been blockaded for two days by American police. One Russian truck driver spat at an American girl bystander as he left the mission grounds.

The siege finally forced Russian headquarters in Berlin to order the mission to comply with American orders to leave the U. S. occupation zone.

But Russian authorities struck back quickly. They ordered U. S. graves registration men to leave the Soviet zone at once.

The eight men had been sealed in their quarters for two days by a "little blockade" imposed by the U. S. army after they failed to heed an order from Gen. Lucius D. Clay to leave the American zone by March 1. Clay said they had no reason to remain as the return of displaced persons to Russia had dwindled to almost nothing.

Protest Ignored

The Russians protested that the order to leave was a violation of the Yalta and Teheran agreements but their protest was rejected by the U. S. State Department.

The trucks which were in the Russian convoy were crammed with worn-out spare tires, battered gasoline drums and trunks.

After they left, reporters found the mission building in a state of utter disorder. Overloaded ashtrays had spilled onto tables and floors. Several chess boards had been overturned, scattering the figures about the floor.

An upturned vodka bottle holding a candle was found in the enlisted men's mess. The U. S. army had cut off gas, electricity and water from the building at the beginning of the blockade.

Communist literature was stacked high on bookshelves in the spacious lobby. The Russians also left behind a number of books. Paintings of famous Red army marshals of World War 2 decorated the walls.

Incongruous in the cold war between East and West was the conference room where the standards of the four wartime allies—Britain, France, the U. S. and Russia—hung side by side.

The mission members had spent hours burning documents and packing their belongings before they left the building.

MANY ATTEND BAND CONCERT THURSDAY

The night was filled with music when the American Legion Quaker City band presented its third annual mid-winter concert Thursday evening in the High school auditorium.

A near-capacity audience enjoyed the stirring marches and captivating light classical selections as interpreted by the Legion bandmen who were under the direction of George D. Chappell.

The nattily-attired bandmen drew the plaudits of the lovers of band music. Solo features included two cornet numbers by the trio composed of Glen Jackson, William Jackson and Robert Hodge; a vocal quartet selection and a baton twirling exhibition by Barbara Lane and Loretta Coccia.

"Pyramid Club" Members Getting "Taken" In Capital

COLUMBUS, March 4.—(AP)—Police—describing "Pyramid club" members "suckers"—estimated today the newest version of the old chain-letter game had cost Columbus residents a million dollars in the last two weeks.

The vice squad sought yesterday to curtail "club" activities, termed a "racket" by Detective Lieutenant B. P. Smith.

He said there are about 100 "clubs" to which thousands of Columbus residents have donated one dollar each, hoping to receive more than $2,000 in return.

Police Chief Frank L. Harrison said the "clubs" are similar to the chain letter game, but participants are not subject to the same prosecution.

When someone enters a chain letter game, he said, that person is subject to federal arrest for promoting a game of chance through the mails.

The "Pyramid clubs" are conducted in private homes and nothing is sent through the mails, the chief added.

Arrest Hosts

Police said "clubs" meetings are held in homes but are not for promoting a game of chance and those who attend meetings and donate dollars are open to sampling charges.

Lt. Smith, the vice squad chief, explained the operation of the "Pyramid clubs" this way:

Each prospective new club member is told he will receive a maximum of $2,048 at the end of 12 days if he donates $1.

Each new member then is required to find two additional new members within 24 hours, in time for the next meeting.

After these two new members have donated, each has to get two more members.

Smith said the process goes on until "the potential market for suckers has been exhausted."

Every fourth meeting of the club there is a winner, Smith explained.

The leader of the meeting is obligated to give the money, which mathematically would amount to $2,048, to the person whose name is on top of the list.

Smith said many persons joined several clubs in hopes their resultant "earnings" would be greater. He said the total paid into each club averages about $10,000.

The "Pyramid clubs" started on the west coast about three months ago. The vice squad chief said several promoters came to Columbus about 12 or 15 days ago and left with several hundred thousand dollars.

"The total 'take' in the city of Columbus at present is about a million dollars. This includes the amount taken by the originators of the racket and by a few Columbus residents who were among the first to join."

NEW SECRETARY MAY HAVE MORE DEFENSE POWER

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Louis A. Johnson, picked to head the quarrelsome military establishment, may be handed more authority than his predecessor had.

President Truman, who announced yesterday Johnson will replace Secretary of Defense Forrester at the end of this month, is expected to ask congress to give more power to the new defense chief.

Johnson, 58-year old West Virginian, has served in the past as assistant secretary of war. His career includes a term as national commander of the American Legion, and experience as a money raiser in Truman's election campaign last year.

A more powerful Secretary of Defense was the main theme of the Hoover commission's recent report on reorganization of the department of defense. Forrester had made similar proposals in the past.

Truman told his news conference yesterday he thought recommendations offered by the commission—which is headed by former President Herbert Hoover—were very good.

SENATE OKAYS LABOR BILL

Truman Bill Passes In Committee 8 to 5 Over GOP Protests

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(UP)—The senate labor committee overrode Republican protests today and approved President Truman's labor bill without changing a comma.

The vote was 8 to 5, following straight party lines.

Because the committee refused to consider any amendments, Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio protested that the committee's action was "the most high handed procedure" in any committee since he had been in the senate.

Committee Chairman Elbert D. Thomas (D) of Utah defended the committee's action. He said the two sides could debate procedure "until doomsday while the country is waiting for action."

"If the actions were high handed, they were necessary," Sen. Thomas said.

Will Repeal T-H

The bill, drafted by the administration, would repeal the Taft-Hartley law and replace it with an "improved" Wagner act. Those "improvements" would provide curbs on jurisdictional strikes, and "unjustifiable" secondary boycotts, create new machinery for handling national emergency strikes and return the now independent conciliation service to the labor department.

The new bill would drop out the Taft-Hartley provision giving the government specific authority to get into the courts to prevent national emergency strikes. The administration contends it has such authority inherently and does not need to have it specified in law.

Republican members had entered today's meeting prepared to ask that consideration of the bill go over to next week so they could finish drafting amendments. They were confronted immediately with a Democratic motion to approve the bill.

Sen. Taft and Sen. Wayne L. Morse (R) of Ohio both made frantic efforts to head off a vote by offering amendments. Their proposals were ruled out of order by Thomas on the technical ground that another motion was before the committee.

Friends 'Pushed' Whinery Into 'J.P.' Work

Justice of Peace Thomas R. Whinery of 375 Washington ave., who will be 82 years old in April, has a unique record in that his first term of office was "pushed upon him" by friends.

That was back in 1897 when he was living on the Butler township farm, where he was born.

The township needed a justice of peace. Whinery explained, and the voters decided he was their man. He served there for 14 years.

Whinery performed his first marriage ceremony in Damascus. He recalls that the groom said he would like to give him more than $1, the fee designated by the state, but confirmed that he did not have the money.

The veteran never "maimed" on marriages, because he is of the opinion that this sacrament belongs to the clergy. However, none of the couples he has married has been divorced as far as he knows. One happy groom insisted on giving him $10 the must be ever received.

Leaving the farm in 1911, he turned to Whinery Press.

Joins Atlantic Pact Talks; No Agreement Needed

OSLO, Norway March 4.—(AP)—Norway today rejected Russia's offer of a non-aggression pact and joined the Washington negotiations for a North Atlantic defense alliance.

Defending her right to decide her security problems for herself, she joined the Washington discussions as her Danish neighbor formally accepted an invitation to enter the same negotiations.

The note said a non-aggression pact with Russia was unnecessary because both she and Russia were members of the United Nations.

Norway expressed a desire to maintain warm "good neighbor relations" with Russia.

The Norwegian government declared "most categorically that it neither will take part in a policy which has aggressive aims, nor will it grant bases for foreign military forces on Norwegian territory as long as Norway is not attacked or subjected to threats of attack."

Moreover, the note promised in no instance will the government decide from "loose and provocative rumors" whether there is a threat of an attack.

"Facts alone" will decide what defense steps should be taken, said the note. "It is self evident that such appraisal rests solely with the Norwegian government," it added.

In a note of Feb. 5, the Soviet government proposed a non-aggression pact with Norway as a proof of its peaceful intentions. It had expressed suspicion of a previous Norwegian declaration that it would not permit foreign military bases on Norwegian territory except in case of attack or threat of attack.

Earlier on Jan. 29 Russia warned Norway not to join the North Atlantic alliance with the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The warning pointed out that Norway has a common frontier with Russia.

Today Norway pointed out that she had acquainted the Soviet Union with her intention of ascertaining "the forms and conditions under which Norway might participate in a regional security system comprising the countries on the Atlantic ocean."

The note announced this inquiry had led to the result that the Norwegian parliament had approved the government's helping frame the details of the Atlantic pact.

School Nurse Explains Work To Kiwanis Club

Activities of the Salem school health department were explained by Mrs. Lucille Brian, school nurse, in a talk to the Kiwanis club yesterday in the Memorial building.

She told of the varied problems which come before the department and of the achievements which have been realized because of the thorough support and financial aid given by the community's service organizations.

Mrs. Brian mentioned numerous cases which have received assistance from the Kiwanis and similar service groups. She added that in many cases the necessary treatment would have been almost impossible otherwise.

Mrs. Brian expressed the gratitude of the department for the audimeter presented to the department by the Kiwanis club.

Dr. Richard McConner, chairman of the underprivileged child committee, was in charge of the program.

Leslie Dunlap and Dr. C. J. Le-wald were named as delegates to the Kiwanis International convention in Atlantic City June 19-23.

Clark Moves To Rid County Roads of Mud

LISBON, March 4.—One of the traffic hazards to motorists, that of mud tracked onto highways from coal stripping operations, may be eliminated in a drive instituted today by Sheriff Howard J. Clark.

Sheriff Clark declared the menace which has been long standing in this county is a violation of the law in that it constitutes a traffic hazard, and coal companies with stripping operations were ordered to clean up the highways and eliminate the condition.

Justice of Peace Thomas R. Whinery of 375 Washington ave., who will be 82 years old in April, has a unique record in that his first term of office was "pushed upon him" by friends.

What The Other Hand Doeth

The Truman administration is spread-eagled on the question of whether to worry about inflation or deflation.

Latest evidence of its dilemma is the Federal Reserve board's easing of rules about installment buying.
Its order reducing down payments from 20 to 15 percent on all items under inflation control, except automobiles, and lengthening the payment time is an anti-deflation move. Meanwhile, the government continues to insist that it must have more authority to hold down inflation.

This confuses the public. It confuses business.
And it must confuse the Truman administration. It suggests that the right hand in government does not know what the left hand doeth. It goes further than that and suggests that no one really knows what either hand doeth. That takes memory back to a situation that prevailed in Washington some years ago.

There was something called the new deal in those days. It was spread-eagled too. It wasn't sure whether it wanted recovery or reform. So first it would aim at one, then at the other. By 1940 after seven years of indecision, it was still wavering. World war II then broke out. It may take a similar shock to help the Truman administration's "fair deal" make up its mind between inflation and deflation.

Deliberate Government

Rumors that the oleo bill is doomed to death in Columbus are greatly exaggerated. Ohioans must be patient. Nothing is ever doomed to death in Columbus. That would be crude.

Such things are done more adroitly in Columbus.
This is, after all, a deliberative government. That means it must deliberate. Rome wasn't built in a day, nor the color of bread-spread determined in a mere decade.

Some day a consumer of oleo who wants it colored yellow when he buys it will be able to get what he wants in Ohio and everywhere else, just like a consumer of butter. No special interest can copyright the color yellow in this country—not permanently.

But the oleo lobby, which is still feeling its way, is no match for the butter lobby, which "got there firstest with the mostest stuff," as it were. The oleo lobby is learning the ropes. But it has an ace in the hole.

It knows that a referendum on the question of letting oleo be colored yellow would settle the question in its favor. So does the butter lobby. That's why the butter lobby has concentrated its efforts on the general assembly, where it can bring maximum pressure to bear with minimum effort. But there's no hurry. Oleo consumers can wait a while longer. Have they not been patient with the butter lobby all these years?

What Do You Think?

One of the legislative proposals in Columbus which shock the general public's ingrained sense of justice would authorize payment of unemployment benefits to employees in plants where strikes are in progress.

Ohio has pursued a policy of denying applications for unemployment compensation in these circumstances. The legislative proposal—senate bill 142—would amend the law to reverse the state's own administrative policy.

The effect of the bill, if enacted into law, would be to grant a public subsidy to Ohioans on strike.
This would relieve unions of responsibility for strike benefits, at the expense of funds amassed to relieve the consequences of bona fide unemployment. A further effect, of course, would be to prolong strikes growing out of bargaining deadlocks; the strikers would be subsidized, but there would be no comparable benefit for management.

Such proposals when viewed objectively are so preposterous that their introduction for serious consideration by the general assembly seems incredible.
The unemployment compensation fund was set up for workers who are unemployed through no fault of their own and, while seeking new employment, are entitled to unemployment benefits.

Where Has Mr. Woods Been?

Tibbe E. Woods, federal housing expediter, has asked for more teeth in rent control legislation because he has learned of a "shocking black market in over-ceiling rents."

But it may be questioned whether Mr. Woods really thinks black markets can be stopped with more federal regulations. They've never been stopped that way in Russia, France, Germany, Italy, Great Britain, Japan or Timbuctoo. They've never been stopped by harsher laws in China, Ethiopia, Persia or anywhere else that public authority has told people what it's legal to charge and to pay.

Black markets are stopped only when there is a fair balance of bargaining power between both parties in a transaction when the balance is disturbed, someone is bound to take advantage. A place is for rent at the rent-control price—but there is $2.00 worth of furniture that must be sold to the prospective renter. A place is for rent at the rent-control price—but first there must be an exchange of cash.
Or a caretaker must be taken care of. Or there must be certain agreements. And it isn't always the landlords who think up these dodges. Tenants too were looking out for themselves long before paternalists in Washington took on the job—and they won't quit doing it if the paternalists get a tougher law.

Was There Any Doubt About It?

The official promise by William E. Foster and Eugene Dennis, top men of the Communist party in the United States, that party members would fight for Russia and against this country in the event of war shouldn't surprise anyone who knows the way these men operate.

These men operate in a way that is designed to "sell" their own interests and the interests of the party.

is double-talk. In the Communist party line there could be no other cause for war between the United States and Russia. American Communists blamed Wall Street for United States aid to Britain before this country declared war on Germany. They openly sabotaged military preparations here until Germany attacked Russia, then demanded that the United States send aid to the Russians.

They have left no room for doubt about where they stand. Their first and only allegiance is to the international Communist conspiracy for the ultimate domination of the Soviet union over all other countries. The only Americans who still find room for doubt are those who haven't comprehended what it means to be victimized by treachery in the guise of a native political movement.

The Stars Say
For Saturday, March 5

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A PARTICULARLY lively, enterprising and constructive state of affairs, in which major interests should be attacked with zeal and the promise of hearty support from influential sources is forecast. Superior, elders and large institutions may be found ready with capital for promotion and with favors and tokens of good will. It might be well to defer to the judgment and larger vision of such, since the personal vision of such, since the personal perspective may not be so clear and workable.

It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find they can benefit on larger issues and objectives by deferring to the wiser heads and ripe judgment of superiors, friends or public officials, whose experience and enterprise have been fully tested. Their vision may have larger scope and their financial aid worth the yielding and compromise on important issues.

A child born on this day may be endowed with versatility and adaptability, but its need of cooperation justifies a yielding to wiser heads and more extended experience.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Different Causes of Fatigue

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A person can be in good health and live a normal existence and yet be a victim of fatigue and overtiredness. In such cases, the fatigue may be the result of mental strain. However, in the majority of instances, the fatigue comes from other causes.

Normal fatigue or tiredness is caused by physical activity, such as running, carrying out household chores, or participation in sports. The symptoms of fatigue possibly develop because waste products formed through physical activity are not removed quickly enough from the body. Lack of oxygen or insufficient food materials may be a contributing factor. Neuralgia may play a part.

Other Conditions

Fatigue may develop from other conditions. Poor eyesight causing eyestrain will naturally fatigue the eye muscles. Insufficient light may also produce eyestrain or eye fatigue, which may be a contributing factor to a general feeling of tiredness.

Tight corsets or girdles and tight shoes and other clothing that interfere with proper circulation of the blood may lead to tiredness.

People who work in noisy surroundings frequently become fatigued. Another cause, often unrecognized, is improper diet. Not only may insufficient food lead to fatigue, but failure to obtain all of the necessary food substances, such as vitamins and minerals, may lead to a constantly tired feeling.

Basis For Fatigue

It is obvious that failure to get enough sleep may frequently be the underlying basis for fatigue.

Tiredness is one of the symptoms in numerous sicknesses, such as damage of the nervous system, glandular disorders and many types of infections.

If you feel tired, the first thing to do is to have a careful study made by your doctor to determine just what has brought it about. Then and only then can the condition be quickly and permanently corrected.

Some Prices Are Now Below OPA Levels

A comparison between the last OPA prices and present spot primary market prices shows that some commodities—such as rubber and corn in the chart, above—have fallen below OPA levels. The new chart compares the OPA prices with the highest each of nine commodities reached. Some other items, notably metals like zinc, copper and lead, are still at their highest mark. Data are from the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

After moving to Salem, he was affiliated with the Votaw, Whinery & Coppock implement store, which was located on E. Pershing st., where the E. H. Althouse garage is now located. Afterwards he and Roy Whinery were partners in operating this store. It was sold to the Saloma Supply Co. in 1924.

ed Whinery to fill his unexpired term and he has been re-elected every term since.

Order is the "law" of his neatly kept office at 134 S. Broadway. He has a place for everything and has everything in its place.

Can't Be Idle

Work is such an integral part of Whinery's life that he insists he would not last long, if forced to be idle. In fact, he has never known what it is to have leisure time. He grew up working. Reared on a 160-acre farm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Whinery, he attended McCann's school, and worked after school hours.

The octogenarian tells of a family tragedy, which occurred when he was around eight years old. His parents were getting ready to go to the Lisbon fair when his three-year-old brother ran a needle in his foot. The child was brought to Dr. John Firestone, whose office was in the building now occupied by the Lape hotel, but the physician was unable to remove the needle. For six months the child was confined to his cradle and it was the duty of young Thomas to sit by his brother, while their mother did her work. Thus, Whinery says, he assumed responsibility at an early age. The needle finally worked out of the child's foot.

Chuckling over another incident, the veteran relates that when he was 23, the late Charkson French tried to sell him a life insurance policy. He was turned down by the company because several members of both his mother's and father's families had died from tuberculosis. And strange as it may seem, that was the only time he was ever asked to buy a policy.

Active in the Methodist church, he has served as a trustee for 25 years.

After being a member of Butler grange for 30 years, he took out a demit.

Next Sept. 11, will be the 60th anniversary of his marriage to Anna E. Mountz, who was also of Butler township.

The pitchers were arranged on a large table and a bowl of spring flowers formed the centerpiece.

Edgar Guest's poem, "A Package of Seeds" was the program prelude read by Mrs. Gertrude Stewart, co-chairman with Mrs. King.

"This is a great hour to be a Christian" was the theme of talk by the program leader Mrs. Wayne Helm, and Mrs. W. F. Ohler conducted the worship service.

After Miss Emma Hoopes presented an informative paper on Puerto Rico the members entered into an interesting discussion on that country and Alaska.

Mrs. Nelson Baunach, Mrs. King and Mrs. Stewart entertained with two trio vocal numbers.

Mrs. King and her co-hostess Mrs. T. P. Miskimins served refreshments.

February, April and May committees will meet in the church on April 6 for a covered luncheon.

Dinner Party Enjoyed By Chancel Choir

The church and the Mother's guild were hosts to members of the Presbyterian Chancel choir at an enjoyable dinner party Thursday evening in the church.

The event marked the first anniversary of the choir and 80 young people, their mothers and guests were present for the celebration.

Mrs. Raymond Stiver, choir director, greeted the guests and Rev. Harold L. Ogden entertained with interesting stories.

Movies were shown by Ted Stewart and singing concluded this portion of the program.

The young people sojourned to the church recreation room where Mrs. S. W. Jackson instructed them in folk dancing.

Green and white was the color theme of the dinner table. The places were marked with musical note favors in green, and long fluted table runners were green. Ivy, potted plants and white candles in crystal added to the attractiveness of the setting. Cakes, lighted with one candle, were given each member.

Marcia Kelly and Ramon Pearson are executive officers of the choir. While the choir members enjoyed themselves, the Mothers guild held its meeting.

Mrs. John Townsend was elected president; Mrs. Peter Presco, secretary and Mrs. Allen Chandler, treasurer. Mrs. Paul Risbeck is the retiring president.

The committee in charge of the dinner arrangements included Mrs. Evas Lipp, Mrs. Howard Schaefer, who also is choir organist, Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt, Mrs. Dan Holloway and Mrs. William Falk.

Bride-elect Honored At Shower Party

Miss Ann Wukotich, bride-elect of Ralph Fratila, was given a surprise miscellaneous shower party Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. William Rutter on Newgardene ave.

The 20 guests presented Miss Wukotich with gifts which were found beneath a pink and white decorated umbrella.

Tiny umbrellas in the same collar were used to mark the places at the refreshment table. Ann and Ralph have been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Oscar Roof, Miss Mary Vratel, Mrs. Milan Miles won the "500" prizes and the special award went to Mrs. Allen Edwards.

Mrs. Rutter was assisted in serving by Mrs. Kenneth Hendricks and Mrs. Dave Swenningson.

Mrs. Null Hostess To Church Group

Members of the Presbyterian May committee of the Women's association enjoyed an informal afternoon Wednesday about the fireplace in the living room of the home of Mrs. Walter Null, II, on N. Union ave.

Mrs. George Emeny, who with Mrs. Null is co-chairman of this committee, presided at the business session when plans for the coming month were discussed.

"Be Yourself" was the theme of the worship service conducted by Mrs. Mabel Riddle.

The meeting April 6 will include a covered luncheon in the church.

Club Is Entertained By Mrs. Panuska

Mrs. William Panuska entertained club associates Wednesday evening at her home, E. State st.

Five hundred prizes went to Mrs. Ernest Monks and Mrs. Albert Leach. Mrs. Fred Silvers won the traveling prize.

Attractive St. Patrick's day decorations were used when the lunch was served. Favors were also in teen tones.

Democracies Working Out Defense Blocks Which May Replace UN For Security

By R. H. SHACKFORD
LONDON, March 4—(UP)—The western democracies are working out a series of regional defense blocs which may replace the United Nations as guardian of their security.

If and when all the blocs are completed they would cover every major region of the world except Soviet Russia, her satellites and China.

The Russians call the western plan "capitalistic encirclement"—the atomic age version of the old "Cordon Sanitaire."

The west, however, insists the plan is a system of defense for self preservation. Western powers consider it a warning to any potential aggressor that he will meet organized resistance if he starts something.

The west insists that arrangements for regional defense are necessary because Russia has converted the United Nations into a "brawling cockpit."

One regional pact already exists. It has been signed, sealed and is in effect. This is the pact of Rio de Janeiro for defense of the Western Hemisphere. It was drafted at Petropolis, Brazil, in the summer of 1947. It was ratified by the necessary two thirds of the states last year.

Another regional pact, the North Atlantic pact, is nearly ready. By summer it should be a reality. It will like the United States and Canada with the Brussels pact countries—Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

The Brussels pact also exists. It binds the five Western Union countries of Europe into a strong military alliance.

Now there is more and more discussion by officials of the need for perhaps two or three more pacts: (1) A Mediterranean pact; (2) A Pacific pact; and (3) A Southeast Asian pact.

Each of these pacts, except the Rio treaty, is aimed directly at "containment" of Communism. And even the Western Hemisphere treaty, although conceived when Nazism rather than Communism was the great threat, is now thought of as a defense against the major potential enemy of the west—Communism.

Britain's wartime premier, Winston Churchill, virtually sounded the death knell of the United Nations this week in Brussels where he was speaking for a Federated Europe.

He described the UN as a greater failure than the old League of Nations and admitted that the west no longer could look to it for security.

Once the Atlantic pact is signed, all emphasis then is expected to turn to the Mediterranean.

A feature of the pact system now developing is that each one has a link with the other. For example:

1. The United States is a member of the Rio pact.

2. The United States also will be a member of the Atlantic pact, thus indirectly linking all Latin America with Europe.

3. Britain indirectly links all of the commonwealth with both the Atlantic and Brussels pacts. In addition, Canada is to be a prominent member of the Atlantic pact.

4. A Mediterranean pact probably would include France, which thereby would link all the Mediterranean member countries indirectly all the way back to Latin America.

Paradox Evident In Ohio Today In Pay And Relief

By LARRY AULDRIDGE

COLUMBUS, March 4—(INS)—Ohioans are participating in a paradox today of receiving peak average salaries and, at the same time, making record payments per person for poor relief.

The average salaries were reported by the Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation to be twice as much as in 1939 and probably the highest in the state's history.

John Mein, head of the statistics division of the welfare department, reported that relief payments per person also have doubled in the ten-year period.

Despite these unusual parallels in economy, Prof. James C. Yocum and Dr. Sam Arnold, both in the Ohio State university bureau of research, were inclined to discredit state and national fears of depression.

Steer Clear of Predictions

However, both economists steered clear of anything in the vicinity of what might be termed a prediction. Prof. Yocum theorized Ohio "might be nearing the end of the inflation period, the beginning of a depression or the lull before an even greater inflation."

The professor offered statistics to support the claim of a high wage scale which compares to the high prices on merchandise. He said that a "cut back on wages or prices would probably not go below 50 percent of the present standards but a gradual 25 percent reduction might be good."

He was quick to add, however, "we just can't tell." Statistics on salaries were available only to 1947 but were believed today to either be the same or greater.

BUC figures showed that the general average salary paid in 1947 was $53.79 as compared with $27.91 in 1939, $45.86 in 1943 and $48.38 in 1946.

As for the common assumption on the part of the public that the war boom provided workers with the peak salaries, these figures refute such a claim.

The top wage earners in 1947 were in the manufacturing industry who averaged $58.06 per week. In the ten-year period covered by this survey, the factory worker was at the top of the list with the exception of 1939.

In 1939 the factory employee earned an average of $30.26. In 1943 he got $51.23 and 1946, his earnings averaged $51.91.

The finance, insurance or real estate employee headed the wage earnings list in 1939 with an average of $33.34 but dropped behind in the war years. He now earns $50.92.

Mining industry salaries began a speedy recovery from an average of $23.24 to a peak of $57.26 in 1947. Miners' salaries jumped $16 from 1939 to 1943.

Feel Influence

Transportation, communication and utility employees also felt an appreciable influence in the boom period. They left a 1939 weekly average behind to take on a boost to $54.92 in 1947.

Persons in service industry still were below the $40 mark in 1947, while wage earners in either the agriculture - forestry - fishing or wholesale and retail trades were below $50 averages.

The service industry averages were $21.12 in 1947 and made gains to $29.17 by the last of 1947. Just above the service industry employees are those engaged in agriculture, forestry or fishing. They earned an average of $18.81 in '39 and made $43.90 in '47.

Wholesale and retail trade workers were paid average salaries of $24.02 in 1939 and raised to $45.54 by 1947.

Poor relief payments per person today averaged $18.03 while "cases" or families served as a unit received only $22.71 in 1939.

Payments of relief were paid to about 23,000 Ohioans each month in 1948. Although this figure was nearly twice as high as the years between 1943 and last year, it was a tremendous drop from a monthly average of between 94,000 and 120,000 in 1939.

Welfare Director John H. Lamneck said the 1949 appropriation would probably exceed the 1948 total of $12,342,000.

The peak figure was $20,424,000 for 1939. This was reduced to $4,414,000 in 1943 and jumped back to $6,808,000 near the end of the war era in 1946.

LAYOFFS ARE ANALYZED BY OSU EXPERT

Says May Be Efficiency Weeding Out Process In Industries

By LARRY AULDRIDGE
COLUMBUS, March 4 — (INS)—The increased unemployment of workers in Ohio was termed today a "possible weeding out of inefficiency."

James C. Yocum, associate professor of the bureau of business research, Ohio State university, said all the recently reported layoffs were probably not caused by the "weeding out" process.

However, he said the indications from business were that efficiency in production was one of the most sought after goals.

Although unemployment records showed a greater number of jobless persons than in past years, business research supported claims of continued production on a 40-hour week basis.

Dr. Sam Arnold, also an associate professor in the university bureau, produced figures to show that the number of factories in Ohio have increased from 8,600 in 1939 to 10,800 in the last count of 1947.

Dr. Arnold pointed out that these figures do not include branch plants or joint factories but that plants under one name are counted as one unit.

Shows Decrease
University figures showed a slight decrease in Ohio employees in 1948. There were 2,159,090 employees covered by the unemployment compensation law in 1948 and were 2,223,363 in 1947, the peak employment period since 1939.

The upward trend of employment began with 1,466,357 in the last month of 1939 and rose to 2,097,847 in August of 1943.

Near the end of the war-era in December, 1945, employment dropped to a low of 1,836,232. Industry had 2,148,747 workers in 1946.

The 1943 low accounts for the number of men in the armed forces during the national emergency and the return of retired workers to normal lives. At the same time, the 1947 figure indicates the number of veterans returning to jobs in the state.

The employment trend in manufacturing plants in the state followed about the same pattern set up in the total employment figures.

In December, 1939, Ohio manufacturers were employing 798,503 persons but, by August, 1943, had a record high of 1,383,628 persons on their payrolls.

Records of industry in December, 1945, showed employment of 1,051,862 persons on factory rosters. This decrease was wiped out in December, 1946, when employment jumped to 1,225,463.

By the end of 1947 employment moved up to 1,246,278 persons only to fall to 1,185,745 by the end of 1948.

Trend Is Down
Prof. Yocum pointed out that manufacturers' payrolls were on a slight downward trend. Although he believes the trend to be "part seasonal" he said he would take the "wait and see" attitude.

The professor added that because of the "wait and see" attitude of others, construction is down. He said his information indicated that lumber stocks were up but orders and shipments decreased.

Dr. Arnold agreed with Prof. Yocum when he said:

"It can't be too long before we get some price cuts."

Prof. Yocum said the unsteadiness of the consumer and the filling of markets with goods would have a great influence on price cuts.

The professor concluded that if the country could have what he called a "quick shakedown" without allowing it to spiral into a depression, "it might be healthy for the over-all economy."

LAKE SUCCESS, March 4—(AP)—A world wide battle to get equal pay for women will be launched by the United Nations commission on the status of women which convenes at Beirut, Lebanon, March 21.

The commission is the U. N. body created to protect the rights of women all over the world. Its members include Australia, China, Costa Rica, Denmark, France, Greece, Haiti, India, Mexico, U.S.S.R., the United Kingdom, U.S.S.R., the United States and Venezuela.

Its delegates have power only to debate and pass resolutions. But anyone who doubts the power of women's talk should study the commission's history.

In 1946 the commission fostered a resolution recommending all United Nations countries give women equal political rights with men. It was approved by the General Assembly.

Eight countries since have given women suffrage. They are Argentina, Belgium, Burma, India, Japan, Korea, Philippines and Venezuela.

Draft Amendments
Four other countries, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica and Peru—are drafting constitutional amendments for woman suffrage.

Getting equal pay promises to be a much stiffer battle. It touches not only government, but thousands of industries and millions of pay checks. In many places opposition to it crystallized as hard as flint. In others, economic complications jeopardize its chances. The fight against it goes on underground, behind closed doors and, sometimes, behind a bland front which ostensibly favors equal pay.

The commission on the status of women laid the groundwork for the battle at its session in January, 1948, by adopting a resolution which backed the principle of equal pay and called on U.N. members to encourage it especially in civil service.

Now the commission has reports from 20 countries which will be studied at the coming session. Bolivia, Burma, Czechoslovakia, Guatemala, Lebanon, Mexico, Panama, France and Poland reported equal pay for women for equal work in virtually all fields. Most say that the principle is written into their constitutions.

The United States, Greece, Pakistan, the Netherlands and Norway reported equal pay in many quarters—generally the civil service—but not a universal adoption of the principle.

Here is the gist of Uncle Sam's comment: Women receive equal pay in the federal civil service and in about half of the state civil services. New York, Michigan, Illinois, Montana, Washington, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and New Hampshire have equal pay laws whose scope varies from manufacturing only to all public and private employment. One fourth of the states have equal pay laws for teachers.

Shows Equal Pay
National Education Association surveys show decided increase in equal pay practice for teachers in cities over 30,000 in the last three years. Equal pay bills for workers in private industry in interstate commerce were introduced in the 79th and 80th congress but none was enacted.

The United Kingdom conceded the justice of equal pay as a broad principle but said it could not apply it now because of economic and financial conditions. Other countries made indirect replies.

After studying the reports the commission will plan its battle for equal pay for equal work for women. At the same session it will study and discuss on a world-wide basis women's political rights, and educational opportunities as well as the conflicting laws relating to marriage and divorce.

Has Trouble With His Climbing Cow

LAWTON, Okla., March 4—(AP)—The cow Iodine will never get caught in a silo.

She climbs.

Last week the cow Grady threw North America into a tizzy by throwing herself into a silo. She stayed trapped for five days until elbow and axle grease got her out.

Now comes word from Farmer Glen Fuqua that his Iodine has taken to climbing. "Iodine at his 360-acre farm near here."

"We came home the other night to see her sticking her head out of the second story window of the barn, looking down at her calf," he said.

"We had a device of a time getting her down. Those stairs are 45 degrees, and we had to poke her with an electric shocker with one hand and hold her back with the other."

Tuesday morning the second-story cow was back in the hayloft. Back into action went the electric prod.

"We wish she'd quit," said Fuqua. "It's a lot of work."

The New '49 PONTIAC

Pontiac—Division of General Motors

North...South...East...West
America likes Pontiac best!

In their own words below, the automotive editors of America's leading newspapers graphically record the nation-wide triumph which the 1949 Pontiac scored on its introduction a few weeks ago. Read what they say. Then come in and see the great new car that has created the greatest public enthusiasm in Pontiac history.

San Francisco: "Pontiac's forty niners" shot quickly into popular favor on their initial showing here. Their new look and astonishing low price has winning immediate approval and rightly so from record crowds because of their two features to say nothing of their mechanical advancement and improved riding qualities."
LEON J. FINKLOS, AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR, SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Detroit: "Public reception of new Pontiac was up to the highest expectations of company officials. It looks like another good year for the division judging by customers' enthusiasm."
SILVER THREMAN, AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR, DETROIT TIMES

New York: "Beauty of appearance combined with advanced utility and styling features of Pontiac models drew much attention from big crowds of dealers' showrooms in New York."
BERT FINKLOS, AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR, NEW YORK TIMES

Chicago: "Chicago welcomed the new 1949 Pontiac with a 24-gun salute of approval judging by the enthusiastic reception and the long lines crowding dealer showrooms. The new Pontiac should prove to be one of 1949's biggest highway hits."
MAURICE BODDY, AUTOMOTIVE EDITOR, CHICAGO SUN-TIMES

Memphis: "The greatest and most enthusiastic public reception in Pontiac's history here. Many orders taken regardless of no definite date of delivery stop. If production can meet public demand I predict the biggest year Pontiac ever had."

Man Needs Clovers, Bunny Foot And Luck To Do Well In Oil Fields, Expert Says

BY INEZ ROBB
DALLAS, TEXAS.—(INS)—What a man needs for success in the oil business is a lot of four leaf clovers, a carload of rabbits feet, horse shoes and the luck of the Irish.

"It is largely a matter of luck," says the man who has done more to take the element of luck out of the oil business than any other man living.

He is Everette Lee Degolyer, 61, the first man who ever wore a Phi Beta Kappa key into the oil fields and came back to tell the tale.

This poly-poly man, with round, ruddy face beneath a thatch of white hair, is one of the most distinguished of living Americans, the nation's most eminent oil geologist and the first in the world to apply the science of geophysics to the oil field.

Through his devotion to geophysics (he is often called the father of this relatively new science), Degolyer has revolutionized the oil business in the last thirty years and taken much of the guesswork and gamble out of it.

No Sure Shots

To the wildcat's despair, no one has yet invented an infallible way to detect sure-shot gushers under the earth's surface. But Degolyer's scientific methods will go nicely till the wind comes along.

His innumerable clients, associates and imitators have billions in the till to prove that Degolyer's geophysics do pay off. He himself is a millionaire many times over, and not solely through luck. And, as a recipient of the John Fritz medal, he is in notable if astral association with such departed scientists as Edison, Marconi, Orville Wright and George Westinghouse.

Nonetheless, he sat in his big office in downtown Dallas and amiably maintained that those shoes have science but a mile in the oil business. He insisted:

"If you have enough luck, you don't need skill but you never have enough skill not to need luck."

As proof of this theory, he points to his work as junior geologist with the Mexican Eagle Oil Co. While he was still a student at the University of Oklahoma, Degolyer supervised the drilling of Potrero Del Llano No. 4, the largest oil well in captivity, which has produced more than 130,000,000 barrels.

"Sheer luck," he insists. That also goes for his peerless reputation as a crap shooter, from which field he retired as undefeated champion.

He is now 61 years old.

Degolyer began to collect books simultaneously with oil wells. Today, his Dallas home houses one of the most famous libraries in the world, devoted to books on the Spanish southwest. His 7,000 rare volumes deal principally with Mexico, New Mexico and Arizona, with excursions into Texas and California.

Includes Books

The collection, open to students and scholars, includes many books printed in Mexico a hundred years before the first printing press was established in the United States.

Precisely the rarest book in the collection is "Historia De Nuevo Mexico," printed in 1610. Degolyer believes this to be the earliest printed work of any of the 48 states.

Degolyer, who wears his wit and erudition as lightly as he did a matty brown flannel suit with white chalk stripes when I talked with him, says one of his other extremely rare items is "The Life of Billy the Kid," by Pat Garrett; the frontier sheriff who eventually pumped The Kid full of lethal lead.

To his fame as scientist and collector, Degolyer has more recently added laurels as a bona fide angel. He owns the controlling interest in America's foremost literary weekly, "The Saturday Review of Literature."

A devoted reader of the review since its first issue, he raced to its rescue some time ago when it was in financial troubles.

For relaxation, Degolyer reads historical novels.

Protest Expanding Army Firing Range

TOLEDO, March 4.—(AP)—The army's proposal to increase the present Lake Erie firing and bombing range over Lake Erie near the Erie ordnance depot from 70 square miles in area was protested today by Toledo area yachtsmen, fishermen, resort owners and the Civil Aeronautics administration at a hearing.

Speaking in favor of the expansion were representatives of the army and Brig. Gen. Kenneth Cooper, assistant adjutant general of Ohio, representing the Ohio National guard. The guard would benefit by the expansion during its 4-week encampment at Camp Perry beginning July 12.

Yachtsmen protested the expansion, charging it would come during the best sailing season of the year. Fishermen declared the enlarged area would take in choice fishing grounds. Resort owners cited the restrictions which would be put in effect. CAA representatives fought the proposal, saying it would take in a portion of the highly traveled Detroit-Toledo air path over the lake.

Quinn Opposes Special License Plate Program

COLUMBUS, March 4.—Special license plates for individual autos may be abolished, State Registrar of Motor Vehicle Frank M. Quinn said yesterday.

Quinn said he was referring to tags bearing only letters low numbers, or letters and low numbers, such as "AB", "21", or "A-21-B". Quinn, who took over the job in January, said he was considering the move because reservations for the special tags cause numerous complications in handling.

TIGHTEN UP ON LIQUOR PROGRAM

COLUMBUS, March 4.—(AP)—The state liquor control department created a new position yesterday—a move aimed at strengthening liquor law enforcement in the Cleveland, Akron and Canton districts.

John S. Weaver was placed in charge of enforcement in that area, stepping up from his post as inspector-in-charge of the Cleveland district enforcement office.

Anthony A. Rutowski, department enforcement chief, said "the supervisor will be charged with the responsibility of supervising enforcement activities in this tri-district area, and to aid and assist the inspectors-in-charge of the respective districts in their enforcement of the liquor control act. He will coordinate enforcement and administrative activities and will have fully supervisory powers."

"It shall also be his duty to establish a better understanding and a more harmonious relationship with county, city, and township officials, and to consult and advise these officials for the purpose of jointly improving enforcement of the liquor laws and regulations."

Weaver, a resident of Sandusky, Tuscarawas county, is 58, and married. He joined the department in 1934.

The Cleveland Akron and Canton districts comprise 24 counties. In the Cleveland district are Cuyahoga, Lake, Geauga and Ashtabula counties. The Akron district consists of Medina, Wayne, Summit, Portage, Trumbull and Mahoning counties. The Canton district is made up of Holmes, Coshocton, Morgan, Stark, Tuscarawas, Guernsey, Noble, Washington, Columbiana, Carroll, Jefferson, Harrison, Belmont and Monroe counties.

MIDLAND STEEL
WALKOUT GROWS

EAST LIVERPOOL, March 4.—Operations in the conditioning department of the Crucible Steel Co. were suspended today after a sympathy walkout spread to the 520 employees of the three turns in the nearby Midland, Pa., works.

James Mullen, district representative for the United Steelworkers of America, Local 1212, said union and company officials will confer this afternoon and tonight in attempts to settle the grievance.

The dispute started Wednesday noon when two men were sent off the job in a disagreement over the wage rate for other work to which they were assigned.

Some 150 other men ceased work in sympathy followed by the second and third turns. They are scufflers, chairmen, crane men and checkers. Operations in other departments have not been affected so far. The plant employs over 7,000.

The United States has 45 per cent of the world's coal supply. The Soviet Union has 27 per cent.

RECOVERY SPEED SOUGHT IN JAPAN

U. S. Pressing to Stabilize Occupied Country; Pol- icy Changes Noted

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—The United States is pressing hard to speed recovery and stability in Japan.

Fresh evidence of this was seen today in the disclosure of two official orders to Gen. Douglas MacArthur to (a) relax the purge of wartime military and government leaders, and (b) study ways to strengthen the Japanese police.

The orders to the occupation commander, issued in recent weeks by the joint chiefs of staff, came to light after being submitted to the 11-nation Far Eastern commission.

Diplomatic authorities indicated that these, along with a series of earlier measures, represent a shift in American policy from reform to recovery which has taken shape since George F. Kennan, top department policy planner, returned from a survey trip to Japan a year ago.

The shift probably is based on recommendations made by Kennan and MacArthur as chances for agreement with Russia on terms of a Japanese peace treaty came to be virtually written off.

Go Over MacArthur

Some policy changes apparently have been ordered over MacArthur's objections. He has been consulted all along but informants said he has been overruled by Washington more often in recent months than in the earlier stages of the occupation.

One of the new directives, aimed at curbing Communism, calls for a restudy of existing policy, to give Japanese police more power to cope with disorders.

The police were decentralized early in the occupation to help break up Japan's wartime system of totalitarian control.

MacArthur struck directly at Communist influence last summer with his order to the Japanese government to forbid strikes by government employees. It was later made law by the parliament.

The new directive to relax the purge of wartime leaders will permit reexamination of many junior army officers and minor officials barred from public life under present regulations.

The current rules, in effect for more than three years, applied to whole classes of officials.

They were based on the 1945 Potsdam declaration that "there must be eliminated for all time the authority and influence of those who have deceived and misled the people of Japan into embarking on world conquest."

Officials look for the latest policy orders to bring a fresh rush of charges by Russia that the United States is backing reaction and trying to build up Japanese for "imperialistic" reasons.

The blood of William the Conqueror, who ruled England from 1066 to 1087, has flowed in the veins of every king or queen who has ruled the British Empire since.

Food Plentiful, But Meat Prices Show New Gains

(By The Associated Press)
Meat prices continued edging upward this week in many chain stores whose competitive quotations are a sensitive barometer of retail trends across the country.

Sirloin steak, for example, was up 2 to 4 cents a pound in several key cities following last week's advances of 4 to 10 cents. Pork loin roasts were up 2 to 8 cents. Even lamb, which remained comparatively high when beef and pork dropped sharply last month, was up a few cents a pound from last week.

One notable exception to the general rule was Boston, where sirloin which sold at around 75 cents a pound last week was 69 cents yesterday, and pork roasts declined 10 cents to about 55 cents a pound.

Trend Leveling

Meat buyers said the upward trend was believed to be leveling off. The supply-demand position of meat is more normal this year than at any time since the early war years, they said, and this means consumption—and prices—can be expected to ease off somewhat now that the Lenten season has begun.

Lenten foods themselves are more abundant than they've been in years. The agriculture department said sales of chicken broilers, for example, probably will be greater in the first quarter of this year than ever before. Prices of these choice fowl were up 2 to 4 cents a pound in many chains as Lent began, however.

Cheese, eggs and both fresh and frozen fish also are plentiful. Shore dinner fanciers in the northeastern states benefited by bumper supplies of mackerel, cod, sea bass, smelts and fluke because the mild winter allowed almost continuous fishing. Canned tuna and sardines also are in good supply, although salmon and shad roe are below normal.

Shoppers should find plenty of hot cross buns available this year, too. Many bakeries are extensively promoting the traditional Lenten pastry whose production was limited during the past few years by the shortage and high prices of sugar and shortening.

While meat prices climbed this week, many vegetables were cheaper. This was especially true of string beans, broccoli, onions and even fresh spinach. Lettuce was slightly lower in many cities and frost-nipped outer leaves showed the effect of the freezes last month in growing areas.

Bill Veeck Talks With Chandler To Find Out About Yanks

Says He Wants To Find What Weiss Is "Popping" Off About Over Players

BY JOE REICHLER

SARASOTA, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Bill Veeck heads for California today to take up his Cleveland holdout problems after airing his dispute with the New York Yankees' George Weiss before Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Chandler indicated it would be several days before he completed his investigation and made a decision.

Veeck's conference with Chandler resulted from counter charges hurled by the two clubs over the signing of two Negro players.

Weiss protested the Indians' signing of Shortstop Artie Wilson, who performed for the Birmingham, Ala., Black Barons of the Negro National league last year. He said Wilson agreed orally to play for the Newark Bears, a Yankee farm club, before he signed with the Indians.

Weiss accused Veeck of "unethical practices" and lodged a formal protest with the commissioner's office which was received by Chandler Feb. 28.

"There is no place in baseball—major league, minor league or Negro league—for tactics of the sort encountered in this case," he said.

Veeck answered with a counter charge against the Yankees, protesting their signing of Luis Marquies of the Homestead Grays. Veeck said the Indians had obtained a 120-day option on Marquies Nov. 15.

Veeck said he came to see Chandler for two reasons.

"I want to find out what Weiss is popping off about," he said, "and what right he has to pop off."

"I asked Chandler for a ruling whether my actions were unethical or not," he added. "I signed Wilson in good faith. The owner of the Black Barons called me and asked if I were interested in Wilson. I investigated and found that the deal with the Yankees had fallen through because they could not sign Wilson. He refused to play in Newark."

"We had been scouting Wilson for a year. Our scouts gave us good reports on him, so we signed him," Veeck chided Weiss by saying that the Yankees' general manager was asleep with the hidden ball trick "like the player who was caught and was trying to save face with his superiors."

"The New York club is trying to use me as a scapegoat for its failure to exercise greater ability and enterprise," Veeck added. "They have to show more hustle if they expect to get anywhere."

The feud between the two clubs began about two years ago after the Yankees traded Second Baseman Joe Gordon to the Indians for Pitcher Alie Reynolds. Last year the Yankees sold Charley Wenzloff to the Tribe for $30,000, but the pitcher refused to report because of an ailing arm. When Veeck tried

POCKET BILLIARD TITLE MATCH TO COME MONDAY

Gallagher to Meet Balsley In Title Go In Class A; Reed, Zines In 'B'

At 7:30 Monday night Roscoe "Doc" Gallagher and Henry "Dempsey" Balsley will tangle in the final match of the city pocket billiard championship tournament at the Recreation Billiards.

Last night Gallagher beat Balsley badly by a 125-42 score, leaving each with one loss in the tourney. Gallagher jumped to a 10-4 lead in the first rack and moved steadily out in front all the way. The game was never close.

Balsley had previously moved through the top bracket of the tourney without a loss, while his opponent had lost one match.

Meanwhile, in the Class B tournament, Ralph Reed will meet John Zines at 7:30 tonight in a semi-final match. The winner will go up against Bill Crouch, who has won his semi-final decision.

Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded winners and runnersup in both classes.

SURGERY NEEDED TO SAVE HOGAN

EL PASO, Tex., March 4.—(AP)—Plucky little Ben Hogan today had survived a two-hour operation to save his life. But the nation's foremost golfer will not be "up and about" for months.

The operation was performed last night.

Dr. Alton Ochsner, the surgeon who flew here from New Orleans, relieved an abdominal blood clot. He was required to tie off the major vein that returns blood from the lower part of the body to the heart.

The Tulane university professor of surgery said Hogan should be over the effect of the operation in a week and "up and about" in a few months.

Dr. Ochsner said Hogan's condition was "very critical" Wednesday night and serious yesterday.

Hogan was injured in an automobile-bus collision near Van Horn, Tex., last Feb. 2. He suffered a fractured pelvis, collar bone and ankle bone.

Saturday Busy Tournament Day; Quakers Set For Game

Saturday is "picnic" day at the sectional-district Class A tourney at Youngstown, games going almost all day long, and Salem and East Palestine figure to have a "picnic" of their own at 8 p. m. in the South fieldhouse.

Salem opens its tournament play at 8 tomorrow night against a team that whipped it 54-44 in the regular season. East Palestine, of course, means to prove that its earlier win over Salem—the first in 13 years of play—wasn't any fluke.

In games at the fieldhouse Saturday afternoon, Austintown Fitch meets seeded Girard at noon, Minerva plays Boardman at 1:15, Youngstown Woodrow Wilson meets Newton Falls at 2:30 and the evening group opens at 6 with Youngstown East playing Canton Lincoln.

At 7 seeded Canton South meets Brookfield, Salem and Palestine go at 8 and Warren meets Lisbon at 9.

The battle between Jack Mills' powerladen Lisbon team and Warren should be a honey, the winner to meet the victor of the Salem-Brookfield fray next Wednesday.

Salem's tussle tomorrow is going to be tough pickings. The Quakers, who gave the Bulldogs a tough battle the last time the two met, will realize that.

A lot of power will be taken away from the Bulldogs if Bill Aldrich, Bulldog guard, is out of the lineup permanently, as some rumors have it.

However, Coach Miller anticipates facing Aldrich in the tourney game, despite the fact that the star has been out of the past few games.

When the Bulldogs pulled the 54-44 trick over Salem only five players were used in the game by Coach Martin. Aldrich and Carl Mackall were in at guards, lanky Jake Reeves at center and Gene Young and Jim Meek at forwards.

Meek scored nine. Young three, Reeves 19, Aldrich 17 and Mackall six in the last fray. The evening was a good one for Salem's Tommy Miner, who racked up 20. Ed Bosch hit 12 against the Bulldogs on Feb. 4.

Miller has announced plans of using his Sophomores extensively in the game tomorrow. This may depend, of course, on how well the starting outfit functions on the big Youngstown floor.

Only sub Bobby Theiss saw action in the last encounter. Others who started were Miner, George Reash, Jim Callahan, Biggie Faulkner and Bosch.

East Palestine managed a 33 percent shooting mark against Salem the last time as the Quakers were hitting 28 percent.

Newark, N. J. — Gus Lesnevich 184%, Cliffside Park, N. J., knocked out Eldridge Eatman, 186%, Norwalk, Conn. 1.

EUROPE IS EATING BETTER, BUT THERE IS GAIN NEEDED

BY ERNEST AGNEW
LONDON — (AP) — Nearly all Europeans are eating better than they did a year ago, but by American standards they still have a long way to go.

This year Belgium and Poland ended all rationing. Russia and Switzerland dropped rationing earlier. The Netherlands has announced it expects all food could go on free sale before the end of 1949. France is considering similar action.

In a majority of other countries,

Went Under Knife in First Day

John O'Donald, of Altoona, Pa., was born with his heart on the right side, his stomach standing on end, most of his digestive organs pushed into his chest cavity and his left lung squeezed tight. Normal feeding and adequate breathing were impossible. Rushed to Children's Hospital, Pittsburgh, his organs were set right by a surgeon less than 24 hours after birth. When this picture was taken, he was two weeks old, had gained 11 ounces, and was on normal bottle diet.

rationing has lost its stringency and rationed foods now are almost always available. That wasn't true a year ago.

Europe's second successive mild winter probably means crops as favorable as those of last year and a further relaxation of the food restrictions, officials cautiously predict.

In a few heavily industrial countries which for centuries have had to import much of their food—namely Britain—rationing is still stiff. There is no sign that it may end within the next year or two. It is stiff, too, in Czechoslovakia and relatively so in agricultural Yugoslavia, due to poor distribution.

Officially, Britain is the only European country where the average consumer is getting fewer daily calories than when the war ended. The ministry of food estimates the average Briton gets now 2,850 calories a day compared with 2,910 in 1945.

Officially, Czechs are eating better now than when the war ended. Unofficially, many Czechs say that it isn't so.

In Britain housewives say the overall position is "easier" than it was a year ago. Fruit is relatively plentiful and there is a somewhat better variety of other unrationed foods.

Bacon or hams vary between one and two ounces; cheese, one and one-half ounces; fats—nine ounces of which butter averages three ounces with the remainder in margarine and cooking fat; meat—one shilling (20 cents) worth. Meat is rationed on a price basis and prices range from four pence (eight cents) to two shillings two pence (45 cents) a pound depending on quality.

Of the meat ration ten pence (18 cents) worth is given in fresh meat, and two pence in corned beef; sugar—ten ounces; candy or chocolates—four ounces; tea—two ounces; eggs—76 on each adult ration book in 1948, and the ministry of food hopes to distribute 100 this year to each consumer; milk—rations from two and one-half pints for an adult to 12 to 14 pints for babies and invalids.

An Associated Press survey showed the most extensively rationed food in Western Europe is fat.

Thirteen countries limit the amount sold to each consumer. The normal allowance varies from 190 grams (seven ounces) in France to 350 grams (13 ounces) in Norway.

Sweden and Norway are the only two countries in Europe with the exception of Ireland where the entire fat ration may be taken in butter.

Sugar is rationed in 11 countries. That ration varies from 72 grams (two and three-quarter ounces) in Spain to 348 grams (twelve and three-quarter ounces) in Denmark. In most countries the level of meat rations is down. Meat is not rationed in France, Italy, Ireland or Portugal although it is not necessarily in plentiful supply in those countries.

Bread, flour and cereal rations have been relaxed in virtually every country in the last 12 months. But coffee and soap usually are tightly rationed. In Britain, coffee is on free sale but tea is restricted.

DIFFERENCES with American authorities, insuperable at the second level, were settled often at the top. . . . Boyle's COLUMN

By GEORGE TUCKER

(For Hal Boyle who is on vacation)
NEW YORK—Tom Carson knows Klondike history, several hundred funny stories, and whisky.

He learned these the hard way, at first hand.

When he was younger, he landed a raft near Dawson City, Alaska, and started digging.

"We were beads to keep our faces from freezing. Eggs were two bucks apiece."

That was in 1899, a year after the Klondike was discovered.

Today, 50 years later, Tom Carson is back in New York—and sorry for it.

"I came east to visit my niece," he said. "She's a fine woman—but I ought never to have come."

HE SAID HIS niece and her husband lived in a little town about 40 miles up the Hudson.

"They mean well," he went on, "but their idea of a big night is to turn on the radio, mix a pitcher of lemonade, and go to bed. I couldn't stand it."

"I slipped away without telling anybody where I was going. I came here, and found a wonderful bar, and spent four days there. I cashed all my travelers checks and wound up busted. Then I called Ida—that's my niece—and asked her to wire me some money. She said she wouldn't do it. She said I'd spend it all and they'd never see me until I was busted. But she's driving down tonight with her husband to pick me up. They'll be here between five-thirty and six."

For this reason, Carson said, he just had to have a small loan until they got here. "To get a meal, and tidy up," he said.

"If you'll let me have it," he went on, "you can have it back first thing in the morning. I'll put it in an envelope and slip it under this door, and you'll find it here."

Carson, at 73, is a bird-like little man whose shirt hangs on him like blistered wallpaper. His Adams apple flutters like a stricken dove. On and on his voice runs, like Tennyson's brook, until it drowns you in a wave of anecdotes, dates, names and places.

"I saw the fight that Rex Beach made famous in his novel 'The Spoilers.' I lost my gear on Chilkoot pass . . . I knew Klondike Kate . . ."

AFTER REACHING THE Klondike, Carson dug gold until his hands blistered. While waiting for the blisters to heal he visited the M & M saloon. There he met Jack London, Tex Rickard, Robert W. Service and so many other interesting people that he abandoned prospecting and drank his way through 50 years of insolvency, warm in the memory of his celebrated friends.

"Rex Beach was a bar slapper," Carson recalled. "If he got an idea while standing at the bar he'd slap it so hard you could hear the bar crack. Then he would bound upstairs—he had a room there and soon his typewriter would be leaping and jumping. Sometimes he would come back and say, 'I had an idea. It didn't work. Let's have another drink.'"

"Jack London was a wonderful fellow, but he quit drinking and became respectable. Even after Jack left the country he used to send money back to the boys, saying, 'I'm not a drinking man—but have one on me.'"

"It was Wilson Mizner who correctly defined the code of the north. He said you could leave your sweetheart and your money for a month and they'd be there when you got back. But a bottle disappeared in five minutes.

"After Klondike Kate came to the gold fields, life throbbed a little sweeter. We never learned how much gold she sent back to the states. . . ."

After the gold camps dried up and the big cities came, Tom Carson settled in Nome. The bars were good. The years passed. Then, one day, came that unaccountable decision to visit his niece . . . I know what you're thinking. You're wondering if Tom Carson came back, and slipped that envelope under the door. Yes, he did.

EAST LIVERPOOL, March 4 — Some 150 employees of the Crucible Steel Co. at nearby Midland, Pa., were idle today in a "sympathy" walkout among crews in the three departments.
